NEW PRODUCT CONCEPT · STARTING WITH VIETNAM × TAIWAN

Jarvis Connect

A platform for work Q&A and finding the right mentor — starting with Chinese, connecting Vietnam and Taiwan.

THE PROBLEM

There are questions you only want to ask someone who's actually been through it

No one to ask

You want to know what work or life in Taiwan is really like, but you don't know anyone who's been there.

Real experience is scattered

People who've been there have plenty of real stories, but there's no channel to connect at the moment you actually need it.

Textbooks, not real people

Courses teach grammar, but the actual questions you have aren't written in any textbook.

THE SOLUTION

Ask real questions. Hear real stories.

The actual path someone takes, from a stuck question to a real answer.

Has a question

Something at work is unclear — no textbook covers it, no one around to ask.

→ Finds a mentor

Browses real profiles — story, experience, region, a self-set price.

→ Asks first, free

Posts a public question right on the profile — no booking needed yet.

→ Gets matched

AI suggests the right mentor by topic and experience, with a visible reason.

→ Books a session

Picks an open slot to go deeper, one-on-one, once a quick answer isn't enough.

Ask & share stay free the whole way through — booking is for going deeper, not a paywall on the conversation itself.

After a session (or even without one), the same person can answer other people's questions too — the loop runs both ways.

WHY WE DON'T START AT ZERO

Built on top of Jarvis Hire, not from scratch

Verified candidate profiles

Existing CVs already carry an AI-scored Chinese-proficiency rating.

Employer relationships

Warm B2B accounts already trust Jarvis Hire for Chinese-language hiring.

An active content engine

Threads & Facebook channels already reach Chinese-learning job seekers.

Category trust

Vietnam's Chinese-recruitment niche already knows the brand.

THE BIGGER VISION

A career ecosystem, not a one-time hire

jarvis-hire.com/services gets someone their next job. Jarvis Connect is what keeps them inside our system before, between, and after that.

Find a job

Jarvis Hire: free CV scoring and AI-matched roles with Chinese-speaking employers.

→ Get placed

Today, that's usually where the relationship ends — the candidate moves on.

→ Stay connected

Jarvis Connect: ask real questions, mentor others, keep building a career — even between jobs.

→ Come back stronger

Next role, a move to Taiwan, a referral — it happens inside our system, not a competitor's.

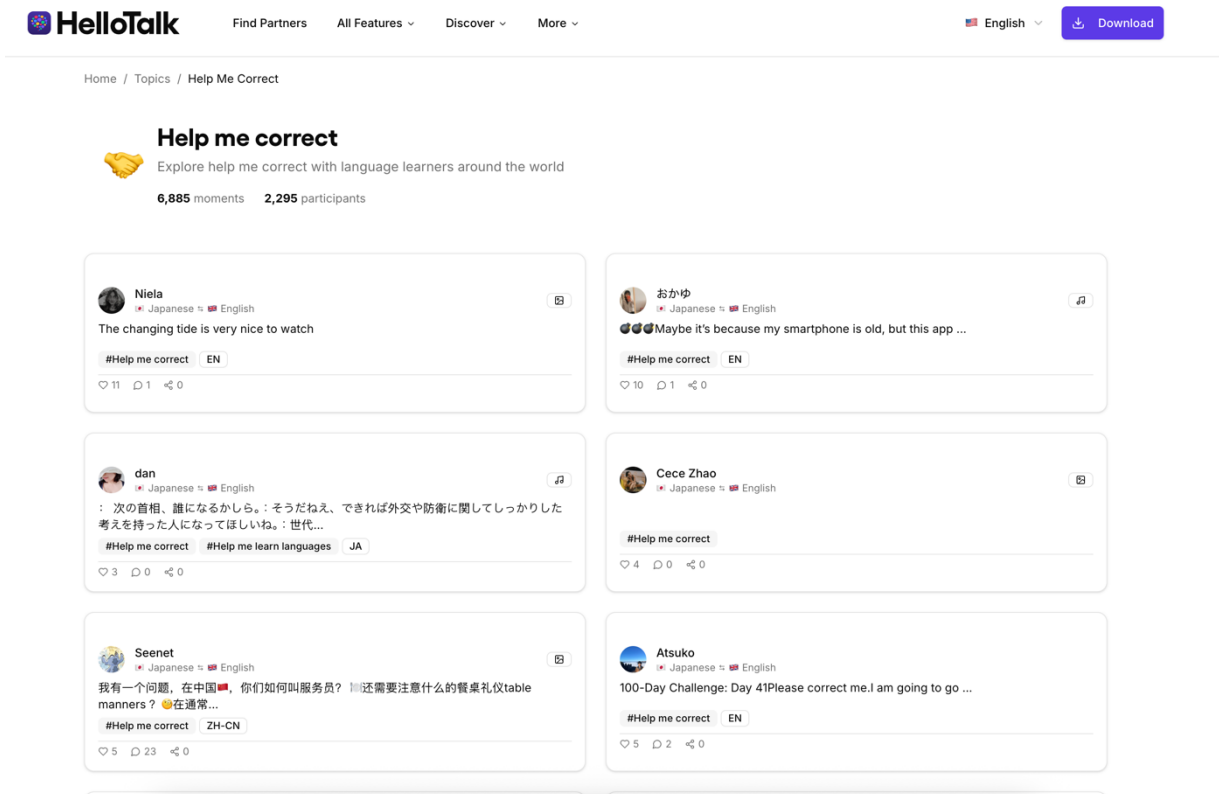

↻ the same person, cycling back through the system — not a new lead every time

COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE — OUR STARTING WEDGE

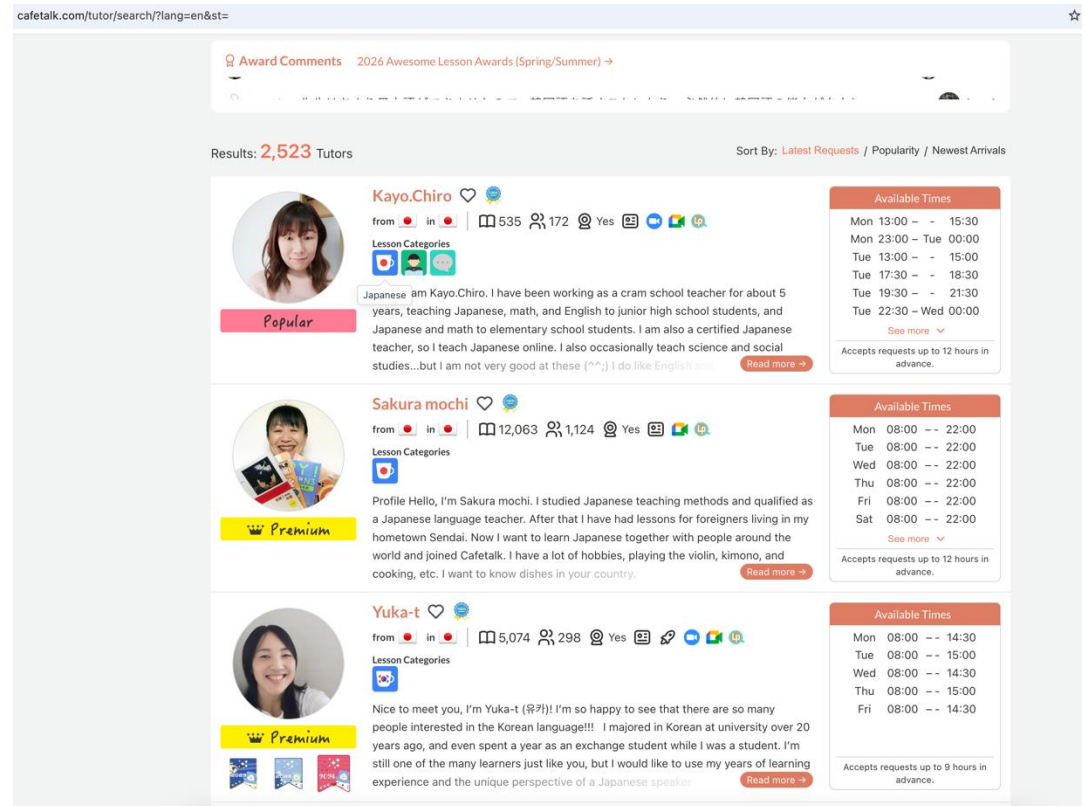

Within Chinese/VN↔Taiwan, no one pairs free real-story Q&A with vetted mentors and a hiring-funnel head start

Platform	Focus	Mentor source	Format	Booking
iTalki	All languages	Community + certified tutors	Structured & conversational	Book a specific tutor
Preply	All languages	Freelance tutors, tiered fee	Structured	Book a specific tutor
Cambly	English only	Salaried native speakers	Always-on conversation	Subscription, call anytime
Cafetalk	Languages + hobbies	Anyone can register (gig)	Casual, self-set	Book via point system
TutorABC	English, for CN/TW	Vetted professional teachers	AI-matched, structured	Scheduled, 24/7
HelloTalk / Tandem	All languages	Peers, free exchange	Casual chat	Unstructured, no booking
Jarvis Connect	Chinese / VN↔TW, to start	Verified VN peers + native TW mentors	Free public Q&A + real stories	Book a chosen mentor to go deeper

Long-term vision: a general work Q&A and mentor-matching platform, any field, any language. Chinese / Vietnam ↔ Taiwan is the initial go-to-market wedge, not a permanent limit.

GROWTH STRATEGY

The content is the moat

Real workplace situations — not textbook Chinese — that no course, app, or forum has ever actually captured.

“Is it normal to push back on your manager here, or does that just not fly?”

EXAMPLE QUESTION

“What actually happens during salary negotiation at a Taiwan factory?”

EXAMPLE QUESTION

“How do purchasing teams actually talk prices and specs in Chinese, day to day?”

EXAMPLE QUESTION

“My Taiwanese boss never says “no” directly — how do I even read that?”

EXAMPLE QUESTION

Real Q&A happens

Mentors answer from lived experience — not a textbook, not generic advice.

Content compounds

Every answer becomes searchable, shareable content on the platform and on Threads.

Attracts the next person

Someone searching that exact real question finds it — and asks their own.

↻ the library gets deeper — and harder to copy — with every real question asked

BUSINESS MODEL

Two co-equal mentor tracks, one flat commission

VIETNAM TRACK

Vietnamese mentors

- Source: Jarvis Hire candidates with real workplace Chinese experience
- Price: self-set by mentor, generally more affordable
- Best for: interview experience, real stories about working in Chinese

TAIWAN TRACK

Taiwan mentors

- Source: vetted native speakers, sourced by the Taiwan team
- Price: self-set by mentor
- Best for: pre-move questions — daily life, work, things only someone there would know

Flat 15–20% platform commission on every booked session — mentors set their own price, on both tracks.

Public Q&A on every profile is free — commission only applies once a session is actually booked.

BUSINESS MODEL — PRICING MECHANICS

Mentors set the price. We take a flat commission.

No platform rate card, no sliding scale by volume — one flat commission on every booked session, on both tracks.

Mentor sets the price

Each mentor prices their own Quick Q&A and Deep-dive sessions — no platform-set rate card.

→ Learner books & pays

Full session price is charged up front when the booking is confirmed.

→ We take 15–20%

Flat commission on the booked price — same rate on the Vietnam and Taiwan tracks, no sliding scale.

→ Mentor is paid out

The remainder is paid to the mentor once the session is completed.

WORKED EXAMPLE — QUICK Q&A, 30 MIN

Mentor's price	Platform commission (15–20%)	Mentor receives
450,000₫	67,500₫ – 90,000₫	360,000₫ – 382,500₫

Public Q&A stays free either way — commission only applies once a session is actually booked and paid for.

ROADMAP — ACTION PLAN

Validate cheap, then grow

PHASE 1

Pilot in Vietnam

- Our own team members become the first mentors
- Reach out to verified Jarvis Hire candidates to grow the mentor pool

PHASE 2 — CHEAP TO TEST

Validate on Threads

- Post real questions & mentor stories on Threads — free, fast signal
- Look for real engagement before building any app at all

PHASE 3 — IF IT'S WORKING

Grow both sides

- Taiwan team brings in more native mentors
- Vietnam side finds the first paying users

Vietnam leads the product. Taiwan sources the mentors. One platform, two teams.

GO-TO-MARKET

B2C first, starting with the sharpest wedge

01

Taiwan-bound learners

Partner with labor-export agencies & pre-departure language centers — an already-paying market that specifically wants Taiwan Mandarin.

02

Students & professionals

Chinese-major university communities, plus employees who need workplace Chinese for sales, purchasing, or production roles.

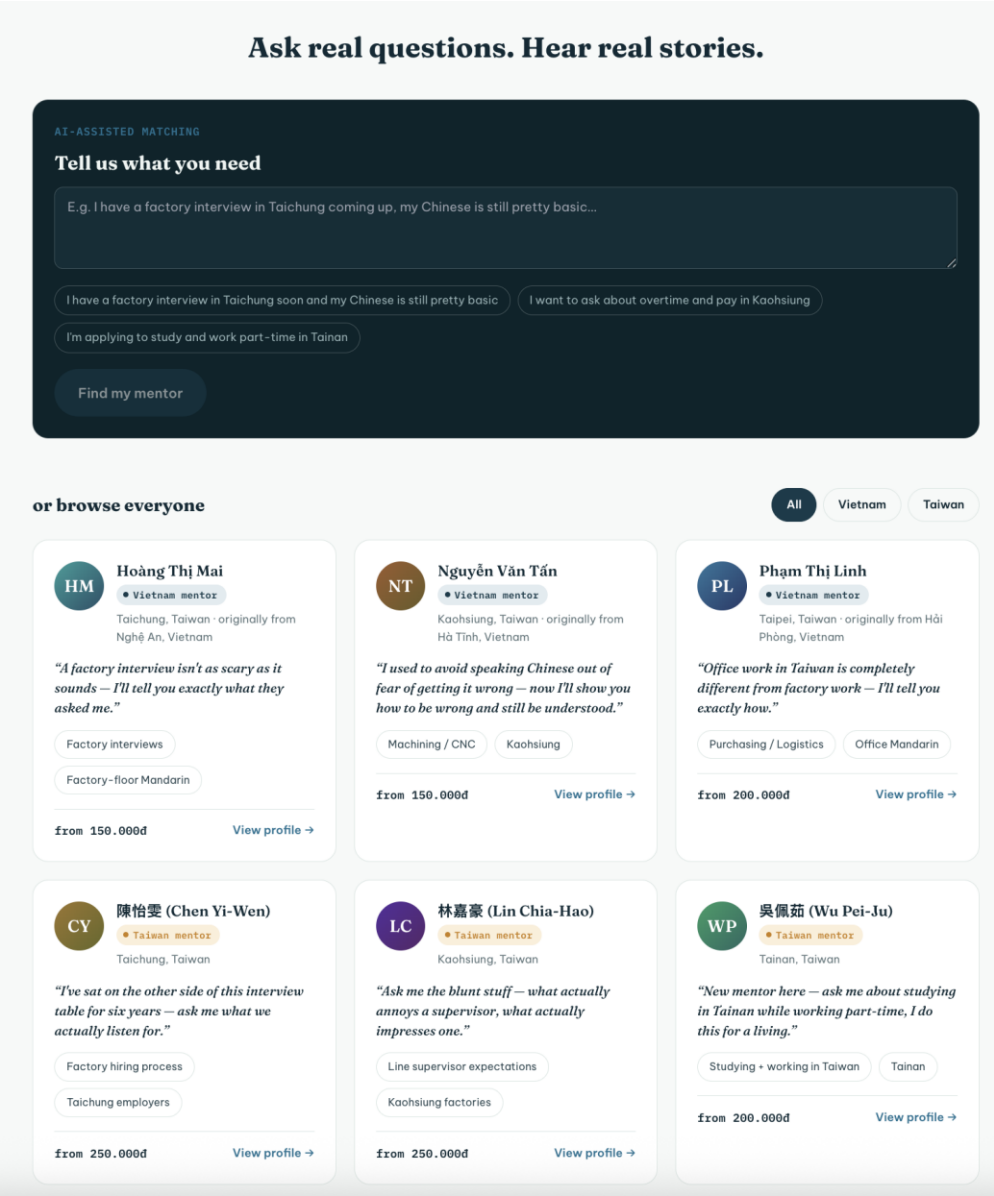

03

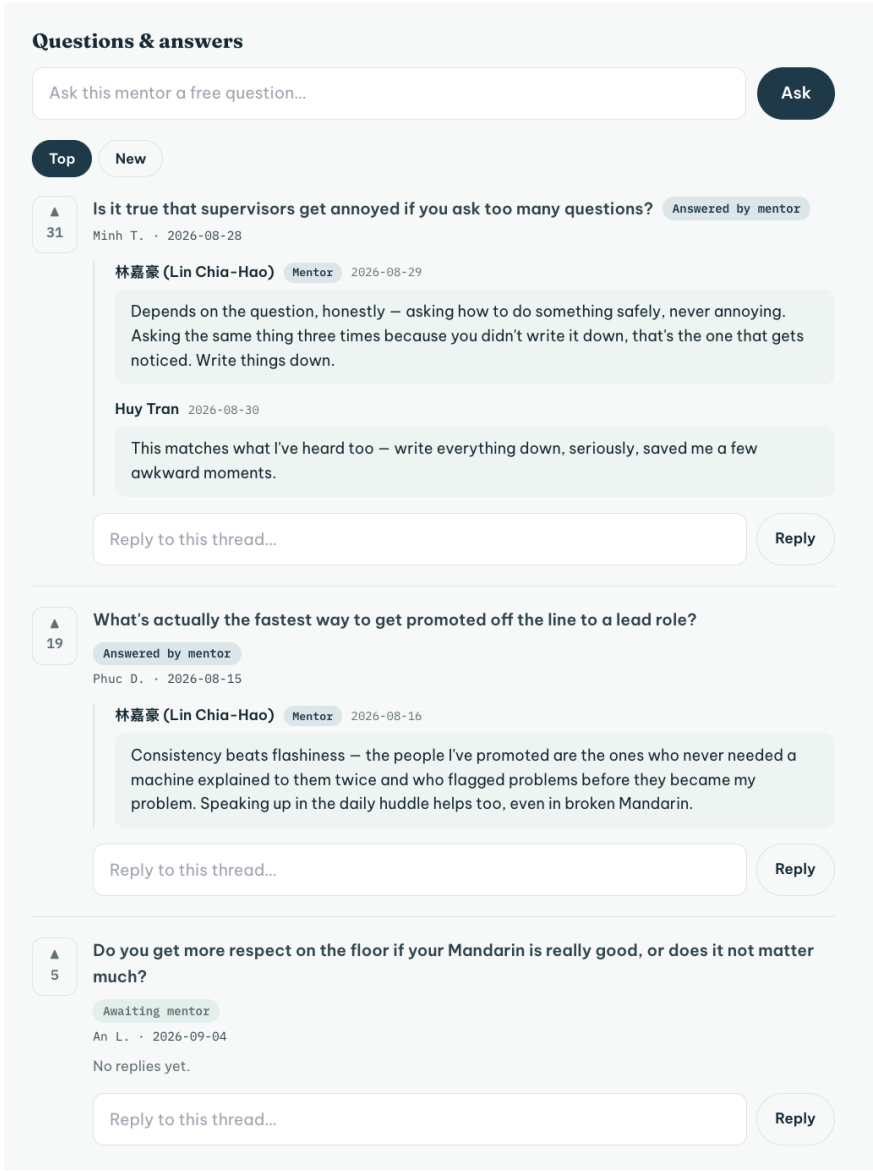

Embedded upsell

Interview-prep offer inside the existing Jarvis Hire funnel, and employer-funded training as a parallel B2B track.

Is it true that supervisors get annoyed if you ask too many questions?

Depends on the question, honestly — asking how to do something safely, never annoying. Asking the same thing three times because you didn't write it down, that's the one that gets noticed. Write things down.

This matches what I've heard too — write everything down, seriously, saved me a few awkward moments.

Consistency beats flashiness — the people I've promoted are the ones who never needed a machine explained to them twice and who flagged problems before they became my problem. Speaking up in the daily huddle helps too, even in broken Mandarin.

Do you get more respect on the floor if your Mandarin is really good, or does it not matter much?

林嘉豪 (Lin Chia-Hao) • Taiwan mentor

Production line supervisor, has managed Vietnamese line workers for 8 years

Kaohsiung, Taiwan · Usually replies within a few hours · 中文 (Mandarin), 台語 (Taiwanese Hokkien), English

Ask me about

Line supervisor expectations | Kaohsiung factories | Shift work & overtime norms | Basic factory Mandarin

My story

I run a production line in Kaohsiung and have directly supervised Vietnamese workers for eight years. People are usually most nervous about the wrong things — I can tell you what a supervisor actually notices in the first two weeks, and the handful of factory-floor phrases that matter more than textbook grammar.

What we'll actually talk about

- The handful of phrases that actually matter on a factory floor
- What a supervisor notices in a new worker's first two weeks
- How shift swaps, overtime requests, and sick leave really work day-to-day

A quick free question below is also completely fine before you book.
